good at organization and efficiency but might lack the strategic vision The Entrepreneur

This is the visionary the strategist the person who sets the longterm goals and creates the overall business plan They often delegate tasks to managers and technicians 2 The problem is that most small business owners are primarily technicians They get bogged down in the operational details neglecting the crucial aspects of planning and scaling This leads to burnout limited growth and ultimately failure The Myth of the Entrepreneur The EMyth lies in the mistaken belief that if youre good at doing something youll automatically be good at running a business that does that thing This is rarely the case Simply having a great product or service isnt enough you need a wellstructured scalable business model

How to Break Free from the EMyth Develop a Business Plan This isnt just a document you file away its your roadmap to success Consider using the Business Model Canvas as a Business Not In It This is arguably the most crucial aspect As a technician youre in the business constantly doing the work You need to carve out time to work on the business focusing on strategic planning marketing and scaling Delegate Effectively Dont be afraid to delegate tasks even if you think you can do them faster or better Freeing yourself up to focus on higherlevel tasks is key to growth Implement Systems and Processes Document everything Create standardized procedures for every aspect of your business from customer service to inventory management This ensures consistency and allows for easier delegation and scalability Build a Strong Team Surround yourself with skilled individuals who can complement your strengths and compensate for your weaknesses

Invest in training and development to cultivate a highperforming team Practical Example Lets say you own a bakery As a technician you spend all day baking Working on your business means creating a marketing strategy to attract new customers perhaps through social media marketing or local partnerships developing standardized recipes for consistent quality and training staff to handle baking tasks effectively allowing you to
